Issue 6
41st Year

A photograph of an elderly couple, Terry and Fran Congram, standing in front of lush tropical foliage. Terry is wearing a blue polo shirt and dark shorts, and Fran is wearing a white and black patterned shirt and light-colored pants. Both are wearing pink and white flower leis. In the background, other people are visible, some wearing white shirts and red shorts, suggesting a luau event.

Summer is almost over, get out and enjoy!

“Oop’s” Report

In the Monthly Repeat Events, our printer neglected to change the contact person for the Weekly Ladies Breakfast, retaining Nancy Gillette. This has been corrected for this month onward. They also neglected to eliminate the Fun Shuffle and Yoga from Tuesday’s schedule for the time being. We will notify everyone if and when they are re-instated. We are sorry for the error.

FROM THE PRESIDENT’S DESK

Summer, where did it go. Well here in Caribbean Isles it is with us just about all year long, no matter what the calendar says. We will be having another Pot Luck for the Labor Day Holiday on Monday, September 4th. Please sign up in the clubhouse so we can get an accurate head count. We will return to the cooked in house hot dogs and hamburgers hot off the grill into your buns.

I attended the Co-Op Directors meeting this month and a very important issue was addressed and funded. An arborist from Grasshopper is being brought in to evaluate each and every oak tree in our park as to its condition. Each will be tagged, recorded and recommendations as to the need of care or removal. This will begin on September 17th. You may see this arborist on your lot but be assured management is aware they are on our property.

When each of you bought your homes or if you rent you were given a copy of the Caribbean Isles 723 Rules and Regulations. It seems at times we must remind residents of the rules you agreed to when you settled into your homes. These rules are meant for all of the residents to insure we live here in a peaceful, friendly, safe environment. To not follow the rules creates some frustration, displeasure and possibly, unsafe conditions. Please, take the time to get your copy out and review it. If you don’t have it, let me know and I will see that you get a copy.

Stay safe and remember your sunscreen.

Ray Sears, HOA President

DID’JA KNOW??

Global alcohol consumption dropped 0.7% in 2016. Certain drinks have become less popular, particularly rum & vodka. The percentages here in Caribbean Isles are even more dramatic since the Canadians left. (But we do miss them.)

"...I am so happy with my new windows...I'd like to commend your work crew. Earbie and Larry were fantastic! I couldn't believe the clean-up EVERYDAY! The whole job took just a week even with all the rain delays. I would and WILL highly recommend your company to my friends and neighbors. Of course I won't need to say a word – the house is doing all the talking! Thank you so much for my beautiful new house."

Carol Zapiecki, Clearwater, FL

"Just a short note to express my appreciation for the work done on my mobile home. The crews that worked here...were gentlemen at all times, efficient, knowledgeable and prompt. You can be sure if I run into anybody who needs your type of work, I will surely recommend your company. It has been a very satisfying experience!"

GREETINGS CARIBBEAN ISLES RESIDENTS!! SCOOP HERE!! SPEAKING OF SPORTS.....

August 2017.....

Not much going on at the compound these days. The pool, otherwise known as the Social Center, is busy, some golfers have managed to get out and dodge raindrops to complete their rounds, but the real challenge here is to try and predict when the rain will come. Probably won't have much to report for September either since myself and Mrs. Scoop will be taking a sabbatical to Maryland, New York, and Michigan. We will be returning in August.

But we do have some grandkid news to report, the first in a while. Olivia Harris, granddaughter of Dave and Claudia Hartsell (Lot 66) recently graduated from Daemen College in, where else, Buffalo, NY, with a Master's degree in Elementary Education. She has accepted a teaching position with Pinellas County at Campbell Park Elementary School in St. Pete. She will be moving to Florida the first of August. It will be nice for Dave and Claudia to be able to stay close to her. We wish her well in starting her career here locally.

Quotable Quotes:

“Los Angeles is one of the two finalists to host the 2024 Olympics. So, if you want to attend one of the events in L.A., you should get on the freeway now” – Conan O’Brien

Sign of the times:

Organizers planned the August 26 Mayweather-McGregor fight for Las Vegas’s T-Mobile Arena. The venue was already booked.

Answer to Last Month’s Trivia Question:

Among the many explanations as to how the seventh inning stretch originated, the most popular was credited to William Howard Taft, the 27th President of the United States, in 1910. Tipping the scales in excess of 350 lbs., Taft got increasingly uncomfortable in the small seat and decided to rise and stretch his legs. In those days, respect dictated that people around him rise also. Thus, the beginning of the “7th inning stretch”. He was also credited with being the first U. S. President to throw out the first pitch in a ball game.

To be fair, another theory was in 1869, Harry Wright of the Cincinnati Red Stockings described a break in the play in the home half of the seventh inning in which spectators all rose, stretched their limbs and sometimes walked around. I like the Taft one better. Scoop “Shout-outs” go to Ray Sears (207), Bob McAuliffe (57), and Denise Chittle (274) for coming up with both versions. A Scoop “Nice Try” goes to Larry Milobowski, who guessed Harry Caray, who took bathroom breaks to rid himself of all the beer he drank during the first part of the game.

This month’s “Where in the World is “Scoop”?:

Columbus' anchor salvaged from the depths

A team of explorers believe they've discovered an anchor from one of Christopher Columbus' ships in the Caribbean. According to a story on the Fox News website, an analysis of the anchor shows that it dates from somewhere between 1492 and 1550. It weighed 1,200-1,500 pounds and probably belonged to a 300-ton vessel, typical of Columbus' time.

The anchor is believed to come from a fleet of smaller ships called caravels, which included the Pinta. Captained by Vicente Pinzon on one of the "minor voyages" of Columbus' third expedition to the New World, the ship sank in a hurricane near the Turks and Caicos islands in 1500.

In addition to the anchor, the team brought up other artifacts at the shipwreck site, including grappling hooks used for salvaging cargo from shipwrecks, as well as pieces of pottery and an olive jar painted with indigo.

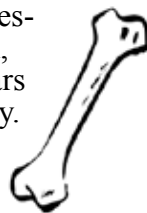

Scientists create negative mass in the laboratory

Negative mass might sound like something out of science fiction, but physicists have created it in a laboratory. The BBC News website reports that scientists at Washington State University have created a particle composed of negative mass by using lasers to trap atoms of rubidium and then cooling them down to just above absolute zero. This caused the atoms to behave as a superfluid liquid, flowing without losing any energy.

Paradoxically, if you push something with negative mass, it accelerates in your direction, following behavior predicted by quantum mechanics. Scientists expect the technique to help them solve questions about black holes, neutron stars, and dark energy in the cosmos.

Ancient bone raises modern questions

An artifact unearthed in Crimea may shed new light on our Neanderthal ancestors, according to the Sci-News website. It's a bone fragment from a raven, and it's approximately 38,000 years old. A mere 18 mm long, the bone bears a series of notches that are too evenly spaced to be the result of everyday butchery. Archaeologists believe that two notches on the raven bone could have been made intentionally by Neanderthals to create a pattern meant to be consistent or symbolic. The bone may have worn as a personal ornament, some speculate.

Traditional books are alive and well

Publishers and traditional readers alike have long been worried about the rise of electronic books as sales of Amazon's Kindle and other devices have grown, but their concerns may have been at least somewhat overblown. New studies suggest that the growth of e-book sales is leveling out—and possibly declining.

According to the Chicago Tribune website, during the first nine months of 2016 e-book sales dropped by 18.7 percent compared with the same period a year earlier. On the other hand, hardcovers, paperbacks, and audiobooks did not suffer a similar decline. In the same time frame, e-books' share of the total market fell to 17.6 percent from 21.7 percent. In addition, sales of hardcover books in 2016 outpaced e-books for the first time in five years.

Don't panic—books don't look like they're being replaced any time soon.

More Americans taking advantage of technology

The digital revolution continues gaining ground, according to the Pew Research Center. Seventy-seven percent of Americans own a smartphone, a figure that's almost doubled since Pew began tracking smartphone ownership in 2011.

Similarly, broadband access is on an upswing, with home broadband service rising 6 percent in 2016 (after a slight decline from 2013 to 2015). In November 2016, nearly three-quarters (73 percent) of Americans reported having broadband service.

Finally, 69 percent of U.S. adults are using social media, especially young people—86 percent of 18- to 29-year-olds are on at least one social media platform.

New hope for headache sufferers

Cluster headaches, such as migraines, are rare, but they can cause intense pain to the people (mostly men) who suffer from them.

But there's hope. According to the NBC News website, the Food and Drug Administration has recently approved a device known as the vagus nerve stimulator for treatment of cluster headaches. Sufferers place the small device, named gammaCore, against the neck and send a mild electrical stimulation to the vagus nerve—a large nerve that runs from the brain to the colon. The jolt disrupts signals along the nerve, reducing the pain.

Vagus nerve stimulation is already used to treat ailments such as epilepsy and depression. GammaCore, manufactured by the organization electroCore, is available in Europe, but electroCore plans to begin offering it in the United States later this year.

Coffee more popular than ever

For more and more people, a morning cup of coffee is part of starting the day off right. According to a National Coffee Drinking Trends consumer survey, the number of Americans drinking coffee daily has increased to 62 percent, up from 57 percent in 2016.

The biggest increase is in the 13-18 age bracket. Their daily coffee habit climbed to 37 percent in 2017, up from 31 percent in 2016. Adults ages 18-24 increased their coffee habit from 48 percent to 50 percent, and 63 percent of adults 25-39 drank more, up from 60 percent.

Sixty-four percent of Americans 40-59 drink a daily cup of joe, up from 53 percent last year. The 60-plus crowd moved to 68 percent in 2017 from 64 percent the previous year.

Consumers prefer the human touch

Electronic self-service may be the wave of the future for many organizations, but lots of consumers are bucking the trend. The CRM Buyer website reports that researchers surveyed more than 24,000 consumers in 12 countries about customer interactions, and here's what they found:

- Eighty percent prefer customer service from a human instead of an automated system.
- Eighty-three percent say that interacting with a customer service rep is important on the phone or in a store.
 - Sixty-eight percent believe they're more likely to get a better deal when negotiating in person instead of online.
 - Eighteen percent said they would renew products or services because of good personal customer service, even if they were more expensive.

Mathematics—the unshaken foundation of sciences, and the plentiful fountain of advantage to human affairs.

Unclear on the concept

A group of managers who had never taken the time to understand the technical aspects of their organization's product line took a tour of their plant. They made several disparaging comments about their manufacturing employees' intelligence until their guide decided to challenge them.

Pointing to a flagpole rising from the floor, the guide gave them a tape measure and challenged them to measure the height of the pole—without using a ladder. The managers all exclaimed how easy that would be and started in. But they couldn't figure out a way to reach to the top of the pole to get an accurate measurement.

Then the guide asked a worker who was walking by on her way to lunch to measure the pole. The woman walked over to the pole and looked at its base. Seeing it was screwed into a stand, she unscrewed the pole, laid it on the floor, and measured it, all in about 30 seconds.

"Ha!" said one of the managers. "That doesn't count. We were supposed to measure the height of the pole, not its length!"

The wrong assumption?

Two experts in business economics were out for a walk and noticed two men in buildings on opposite sides of the street yelling and screaming at each other out of their windows.

After observing the situation, one of the economists said, "I predict they will never find a way to agree and resolve their argument."

"Why not?"

"Because," said the first, "they are arguing from different premises."

One way to solve a problem

A farmer invested his savings in building a pond to raise fish for sale. But after he stocked the pond, he discovered he would soon have a problem. A friend warned him that kids from the nearby town liked to sneak into farmers' ponds to go swimming. The farmer knew they would stir up the muddy bottom and kill off his fish.

One evening the farmer, carrying a pail, went down to the pond. Sure enough, a bunch of young people were getting ready to dive in. They outnumbered the lone farmer and showed no signs of fearing him. In fact, they taunted him and dared him to drive them off. But he simply reached in the pail and started tossing chunks of raw meat into the water.

"What the heck are you doing?" asked the trespassers.
The farmer shrugged. "Just feeding the alligator."
