Early birds versus night owls—who's better off?

The early bird gets the worm, and early risers enjoy other benefits, according to a story on the New York Post website. A survey of sleep habits involving 2,000 people found that, among other things, self-identified early birds have more sex on a weekly basis than their night owl counterparts.

The survey also found that early birds generally make more money, are more likely to work in an office setting, and describe themselves as happy. They're also more likely to be married with children in their home. On the other hand, night owls are typically shy and sarcastic, likely to believe in ghosts and cryptids, and more often single.

They tend to sleep about the same amount—seven hours a night for early birds and six hours for night owls. However, early birds are light sleepers, and they feel more well-rested when they get up than night owls.

Disconnecting may not lead to the benefits you're looking for Ever feel the need to disconnect from your devices for a “digital detox”? The Yahoo Finance website reported on a survey by Mojo Vision (Saratoga, California), which found that people tend to use technology as much, if not more, after distancing themselves from their smartphones and tablets for a while.

The survey of 1,000 Americans found that 67 percent agree that technology makes life easier, but 55 percent believe that all that tech is a distraction, with one-third worrying that it hurts people's ability to connect with one another. Still, 54 percent said that abstaining from their devices didn't produce the positive benefits they'd hoped for—or at least were unsure whether it had a beneficial impact.

The most common strategies for “subtracting” tech are setting devices to send fewer notifications, putting them on a “Do Not Disturb” setting, scheduling times to not use their devices, or simply turning them off for a period of time.

A good decision is based on knowledge, and not on numbers.

Flower power

A dairy farmer in Japan, Toshiyuki Kuroki, found a novel way to help his wife, Yasuko, cope with her failing health. When complications from diabetes robbed her of her vision, he began planting shibazakura around their farm. It's a species of phlox and a hearty groundcover that blossoms March and April.

Though he knew his wife of 30 years would no longer be able to see the beautiful fuchsia-colored petals, he hoped the sweet fragrance of the flowers would lure her outdoors and out of her deepening depression. It didn't, for a while, and then something pretty wonderful happened.

As the farmer continued to plant more flowers, they thrived and spread across the farmland. People from surrounding areas, even tourists, began to visit the farm. Everyone wanted to see the beautiful pink fields and walk among the spring flowers. With so many new and different people showing up on their land, the farmer's wife began to wander outside and interact with the visitors. She was happy again.

For the past 25 years, the shibazakura fields that surround the home of Toshiyuki and Yasuko Kuroki have sparked joy and wonder in the hearts of many. The Kurokis receive about 7,000 visitors a year at the farm during March and April, and they no longer raise dairy cows.

Their story is a reminder that love and flowers are a powerful healing force.

That's what friends do

A story recently went viral on social media that attracted the attention of national news outlets:

A teenager from a small town in Arkansas saved two years of earnings from his part-time job to buy a motorized wheelchair for his best friend and fellow high school classmate. It was a selfless act that speaks volumes about friendship and goodwill while serving as an example of how each of us can do and give more to contribute to the greater good.

A flower cannot blossom without sunshine. A man cannot live without love.

Watch for these hidden causes of high blood pressure

Many factors affect your blood pressure, including genetics, diet, and even your sleeping patterns. The Healthline website advises you to be mindful of these possible contributors to high blood pressure, as well:

- Over-the-counter medications. Common medications used to address everyday aches and pains can increase one's blood pressure. These include anti-inflammatory drugs like Aleve, Advil, and Tylenol, as well as decongestants. You don't have to stop taking them, but check with your doctor.
- Caffeine and alcohol. Both of these can heighten your blood pressure. Limit yourself to less than 300 milligrams of caffeine a day—two to three cups of coffee—and one alcoholic beverage a day for women and two for men.
- Food ingredients and supplements. Some herbal supplements, for example, use licorice, which can raise blood pressure. In addition, some cheeses, cured meats, and also soy products contain high levels of tyramine, which can interact with medications like antidepressants, causing a spike in blood pressure.

Pill offers an alternative to insulin injection

People with type 2 diabetes may have a new alternative to insulin injections, according to the Science Daily website. A research team at MIT has developed a capsule that patients can take orally to receive their insulin through the stomach.

The blueberry-size pill contains a tiny needle filled with compressed, freeze-dried insulin. The needle itself is made of a biodegradable substance and is attached to a compressed spring held in place by a disk of sugar. The capsule is designed to orient itself so the needle can contact the lining of the stomach. When the needle is injected, the insulin dissolves at a controlled rate and then passes harmlessly through the digestive system.

Tests in animals found that the device can deliver sufficient insulin to lower blood sugar at a rate comparable to injections through the skin. The device can also be adapted to deliver other medications.

An educated guess

The students in a zoology class were shown a series of slides. Each picture framed only the legs of a rare and exotic bird. Correctly identifying each species was how the students would earn their final exam grade.

“This is ridiculous!” one student shouted as he marched up to the front of the room, slammed his incomplete final on the professor’s desk, and headed toward the door.

The professor looked at the paper and noticed the student’s name was not on it. “Wait, what is your name?” he asked.

The student turned around, rolled up the legs of his jeans, and shouted, “You tell me!”

Reasons to get away

After a day of hiking, a group of tourists were seated around a campfire deep in the Amazon rainforest. Their guide asked the members of the group what inspired them to make this trip.

“I want to explore new places and do fun things,” said one camper.

“I write a travel blog,” volunteered another. “This is a work assignment for me.”

“My neighbor’s kid inspired me take this journey,” said a third man. “He’s learning to play the accordion.”

What you don’t know

A man is wandering through the desert with his horse and his dog. After several hours under the heat of the sun, the dog sits down and says: “That’s it. I’m not taking another step until I get some water.”

The man gasps and says: “I didn’t know dogs could talk.”

The horse looks at the man and says, “Me neither.”

Follow these steps to achievement

Ever feel stuck in life? You can dig yourself out of the hole with the proper attitude. Try these tips from the Success magazine website:

- Focus on commitment. Are you really committed to your goal? If not, you won't be motivated to pursue it.
- Concentrate on gaining knowledge. Don't expect instant results. Instead, work on accumulating the knowledge you need to get to where you want to go.
- Have some fun. Don't make the work all drudgery. Set a goal you'll enjoy working toward, and look for opportunities to have fun along the way.
- Monitor your thoughts. Don't fall into defeatist thinking. Get rid of negative thoughts that sap your self-confidence.
- Spark your imagination. Be open to anything, no matter how wild it seems at first. Generate ideas through brainstorming with others, exploring the world around you, and seeking opportunities to learn new things.
- Challenge yourself. Don't wait for the perfect moment to take action. Take chances, get out of your comfort zone, and be realistic about your mistakes and the causes of your failures.
- Eliminate distractions. Focus on what's most important without letting nonessential tasks get in your way.
- Rely on yourself first. You'll have to ask others for advice, assistance, and support, but remember that in the end, your success is your responsibility alone.
- Have a plan. Don't go off in all directions at once. Work out a solid, detailed plan for getting from your starting point to the result you want.
- Avoid burnout. Don't work too hard. Take care of your health, and give yourself permission to take a break—from a few minutes to a few days—if you start to feel yourself wearing down physically or mentally.

I know the price of success: dedication, hard work, and an unremitting devotion to the things you want to see happen.
