Scribe Nancy Labbe's Message

January, 2018 already. 2017 was very interesting, that was for sure, especially with Hurricane Irma coming to visit Glen Ellen. There was damage to mobiles but no one was hurt or went to heaven. We thank you Lord!

This is our third year with Multi-Media. Thank you for your expertise.

I hope everyone had a great Christmas and New Year.

I wish everyone a happy, healthy and caring 2018. Be safe and happy everyone!

Your scribe, Nancy Labbe

Follow these tips to avoid accidents at home

Every year about 30,000 fatal accidents occur in people's homes, most of which were largely preventable. Making your home accident-proof isn't hard. To make sure your home is a safe home, review this safety checklist:

- Stairwells, stoops and steps. Tack down loose carpeting, augment dim lighting, and bolt handrails to walls with long screws.
- Exterior walkways and steps. If painted, repaint with a nonslip additive that prevents slipping or affix with nonslip strips.
- Electric garage door. Test periodically to make sure the safety stop mechanism is operational.
- Free-standing furniture. Secure bookshelves and storage units to walls with angled brackets, screws or bolts.
- Gas and water cutoff valves. Know how to close them. Use tags to identify each one, if necessary.
- Heating and water system. Have the vent stacks professionally checked annually to prevent toxic gases from entering the home.
- Water heater. Set temperature at or below 120 degrees Fahrenheit. Test highest temperature in running water with meat thermometer. Alternatively, install an anti-scald device on faucets and showerheads.
- Clothes dryer. Make sure it vents directly outside, not through a chimney flue, as lint is combustible and the fumes can be toxic.
- Radiators. Cover with a frame that is not touching the unit.
- Steam irons. Always unplug before filling with water.
- Toasters. Avoid toasting sugarcoated or filled pastries because the sugar can ooze, gumming up the inside and causing a fire.
- All appliances. Check to make sure they have UL listings, which guarantee the product meets safety standards. And make sure electrical appliances are not next to heating equipment.

The courage to try

Life lessons can come from the most unlikely sources if we are open to receiving what they have to offer us. For Tricia Goyer, a wife, mother, and accomplished author, a lesson in bravery came from her twentysomething son Nathan.

When he announced his plans to write a book, Goyer encouraged him and even promised to edit it once the manuscript was completed. With 500 magazine articles bylines and more than 50 published books of nonfiction and fiction, Goyer knew her insight would be beneficial. She also knew that Nathan had a gift for creating and telling stories, which had been a favorite pastime since his childhood.

As Goyer edited Nathan's rough draft she realized that her son had a talent for writing and decided they should hire a professional editor to review the text. The editor also liked Nathan's work and offered the aspiring novelist some constructive feedback.

After the rewrites were finished, Goyer told her son to start weighing his options about next steps in the publishing process. He could go the traditional route and work with a publisher, or self-publish. Nathan told her he'd need time to think things over and then excused himself to run an errand. He returned a short time later and announced that he would self-publish his work as an e-book. The next day his novel Bask was for sale on Amazon.com. It has even received a few positive reviews.

For Goyer, taking those next steps in the process of publishing one of her many books has never been something she could act on with that kind of certainty or efficiency. She says she would first share copies with as many as 20 friends and consider their feedback. Next she might attend a workshop or conference to solicit even more feedback and advice before deciding which route to take.

Nathan has inspired Goyer to believe that “sometimes we just need to roll up our sleeves and do what we’ve been afraid to try.”

Stage one

Joe asked his friend Dan for a cigarette.

“I thought you made a resolution to stop smoking this year,” Dan replied.

“I did,” Joe agreed, “but it’s a process with many steps that must be completed before you actually quit. Right now, I’m working through stage one.”

“What’s stage one?”

“This is the period where I stop buying them.”

More bad news about cigarettes

You probably know that smoking is bad for your health, but have you considered its impact on the environment? Among other things, it's a major cause of litter.

A report from the U.K.-based Greyhaze notes that more than 176,000,000 pounds of cigarette butts are discarded in the United States each year, amounting to 30 percent of all litter. More than 4.5 trillion cigarettes are littered around the world each year.

In addition, Greyhaze reports that more than 3.2 million cigarettes or cigarette butts were collected on beaches and inland waterways around the world in 2009, not including some 18,000 lighters, 74,000 cigar tips, and 36,000 tobacco pouches. The report notes that fish eat cigarette butts, mistaking them for worms and other food, and a single butt can kill a fish living in one liter of water.

Afraid of ghosts? Not everyone is

Would you buy a haunted house? Surprisingly, some homebuyers would be willing to live in their very own Amityville horror. Realtor.com's Haunted House Real Estate Survey of 1,000 people found that 30 percent are receptive to the thought of sharing living quarters with ghosts, 25 percent "might" be, but 42 percent would reject the idea outright.

Ghost-friendly buyers did list some caveats, though. Forty percent would expect a price cut on a haunted house, and others said extra space or a good neighborhood would increase their chances of accepting such a deal. Still, 28 percent of people in the survey said they've already lived in a haunted home, citing inexplicable noises, creepy feelings, or seeing objects move or disappear.

Listen to your internal clocks

The "clocks" in our bodies are important to maintaining good health—and messing with them can cause big problems. Three researchers recently won the Nobel Prize for their work studying how these clocks influence every cell in the human body. According to the NPR website, pulling an all-nighter for work or school, or jet lag caused by a transatlantic flight, can cause blood pressure to go up, disrupt hunger hormones, and increase blood sugar levels. You can overcome these problems over time, but a regular schedule that throws off your body clock can lead to such health problems as weight gain and Type 2 diabetes.

Late-night snacking can also disrupt your body clock. When darkness falls, your "master clock" advises other clocks not to eat. When you override that command, the pancreas starts releasing insulin to break down the food. This can reset the pancreas' clock and take it out of synch with other clocks in your body. The takeaway? Pay attention to the clocks inside your body for better health.

VINYL IS FINAL

"...I am so happy with my new windows...I'd like to commend your work crew. Earbie and Larry were fantastic! I couldn't believe the clean-up EVERYDAY! The whole job took just a week even with all the rain delays. I would and WILL highly recommend your company to my friends and neighbors. Of course I won't need to say a word - the house is doing all the talking! Thank you so much for my beautiful new house."

Carol Zapiecki, Clearwater, FL

"Just a short note to express my appreciation for the work done on my mobile home. The crews that worked here...were gentlemen at all times, efficient, knowledgeable and prompt. You can be sure if I run into anybody who needs your type of work, I will surely recommend your company. It has been a very satisfying experience!"

Did you know that January is also...

Book Blitz Month. This is a time for authors of all genres to put themselves out there and promote their work. For the rest of us, it's a time to celebrate literacy, set personal goals to read more, and curl up with a good book.

National Braille Literacy Month. Developed in the 19th century by Louis Braille, this tactile system allows visually impaired and blind individuals a way to read, write, and learn.

International Creativity Month. Whether you're a homemaker, student, employee, employer, or retiree, this is the month to challenge yourself and your usual way of doing things. Try something new, explore, innovate, broaden your horizons of expression, and create something.

Hot Tea Month. Black, white, green, herbal, oolong, Darjeeling, Ceylon, chai—the list can go on for several pages. There are thousands of teas and blends to try. Find a new favorite and warm up with a cup of fragrant goodness this winter.

Self-Love Month. Many of us have already promised to become better at being better this year. Why not start by showing yourself some TLC? Find a way to honor, appreciate, and love yourself this January.

Universal Letter Writing Week, Jan 8-14. Since 1971, the Universal Postal Union has held a letter writing competition for young people age 15 and under. The event is a way to promote both literacy and the development of composition skills throughout the world. The theme of this year's contest asks writers: "Imagine you are a letter travelling through time. What message do you wish to convey to your readers?"

Healthy Weight Week, Jan. 16-22. This isn't about diets or the latest weight loss trends. A healthy body image is the key to establishing realistic goals and strategies that will help you to achieve and maintain a healthy weight and body mass. Factors such as age, bone structure, height, and physical ability should also be considered when developing personal health standards. Check in with your physician before making any changes to your diet, nutrition, and activities.

National Sunday Supper Day, Jan. 14. The second Sunday in January is a time for families to gather in the home and around the hearth and reconnect over the evening meal and hopefully establish a new monthly habit in the year ahead.

National Plan for Vacation Day, Jan. 31. There's a disturbing trend that the average American worker fails to use any or most of their vacation days. Let's change that in 2018. Set aside time in your schedule on this day to plan a getaway.

One hour of exercise may relieve depression

Feeling depressed? Get moving. As the Medline Plus website reports, a survey of some 34,000 adults found that people who exercise just one hour a week have a 44 percent lower risk of depression over 10 years than those who don't exercise at all.

A Norwegian survey tracked exercise habits along with depression and anxiety risk among people with an average age of 45 who underwent physical exams and filled out questionnaires about their medical needs and lifestyles. The results showed that the intensity of the exercise didn't matter—an hour-long walk provided just as much relief as a high-impact workout.

Exercise didn't appear to have any effect on anxiety risk, but the researchers found that regular exercise for at least one hour per week was connected to a lower risk of depression, regardless of gender or activity intensity.

However, more than an hour's exercise didn't appear to further decrease the risk of depression substantially. Also, the scientists have noted that they haven't proven a direct cause-and-effect relationship between exercise and depression.

Still, it sounds like another good reason to get off the couch and start up a modest exercise routine.

Ancient ocean covered much of Mars

Mars may be dry on its surface now, but readings from NASA's Mars Reconnaissance Orbiter (MRO) show that a vast sea existed in the southern highlands approximately 3.7 billion years ago, according to the Sci-News website.

The area, known as the Eridania Basin, contains a mix of such minerals as serpentine, talc, and carbonate, which led NASA researchers to identify possible hydrothermal deposits. The evidence suggests that these deposits were formed by heated water from a volcanically active part of the Mars' crust entering the bottom of a large sea. The sea could have held up to 50,000 cubic miles of water, as much as all other known Martian lakes combined and more than nine times the volume of water in all of North America's Great Lakes.

In addition to being important to the exploration of Mars, the sea-floor deposits also provide a glimpse into the early life of Earth. The earliest evidence of life on our planet comes from similar deposits, but the geological record is poorly preserved, NASA scientists say.
