FROM THE DESK OF THE PRESIDENT

Cheri Adam

The seawall on the west side of the lake is complete. The solar panels should be up and running by the time you read this. We were waiting for Duke Energy to install a new meter which is the last phase of the project. This completes the projects for 2015, but, that doesn't mean this Board will be idle the rest of the year. We are already preparing for the financial meeting on November 2, 2015. The first notice of the annual meeting, slated for January 4, 2016, will be sent the end of October.

In the meantime we are looking forward to projects for next year. These will include the seawall on the north side of the lake and continuing the fencing on the east side of our property.

It is important that we keep moving forward with upgrades to common areas of our community. In the long run it increases all of our property values and makes the business of Glenwood a more successful one.

FROM THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Just to remind everyone, you are required to fill out a Building Alterations Permit for ANY work you are having done to the outside of your unit. This includes painting of the house or driveway, window replacement, vapor barriers, shrubs and trees, everything!

October is "catch and keep" month for fishing in the lake. You may keep anything you catch that measures 6"- 8" . Any fish smaller or larger than that must be released.

FROM THE OFFICE

There has been a change in our recycle day. The new day is Wednesday. Trash days remain the same. According to my contact at Waste Pro by the year 2020 recycling will be mandatory in Pinellas County and they want everyone to recycle on the same day. To that end Waste Pro decided to initiate the policy immediately.

Also, we now have blue recycle bins. If you were issued two green bins instead of one green and one blue you can trade one of your green bins for a blue one.

BEAUTIFICATION COMMITTEE

During the week of October 14th the Committee, consisting of Cheri Adam, Martha Barry, and Kitty Wagner, will be making their fall walk thru. If you have a situation you know the committee will take issue with and are scheduled to have the work done, please, notify the office. We will give you one month to bring any issues up to our standards and make a second walk thru. If the work is not done and you have not notified us, action will be taken.

Then we will have a rehearsal on Wednesday, November 11th at 1:00P.M. clubhouse. I know that we have a lot of talent out there so please plan something that you would like to perform, singing, playing an instrument, telling jokes, doing a short skit, whatever you can think of that will be entertaining. Looking forward to seeing a lot of people on November 3rd.

WHO AM I?

Barbara Strachan remains on top of her game having correctly identified September's WHO AM I? as John McAra.

I have a couple of photos that could have run in this edition but was unable to get clues. If you gave me a snapshot, please, call with some clues so I can use them! You know who you are!

TOURS & TRAVEL

Carol Smerker & Joyce Herbort

Let's go to a show...a musical at Largo Cultural Center that is. I have tickets for 'West Side Story' on Sunday, Nov. 15th. I only reserved 10 seats, center section, row K. The cost is $27.50 each. If I don't sell 10, the cost is $30, however the first 10 who get their money to me will get those reserved seats. I can get more seats, but they may not be as good or may not be together.

We have many new travel opportunities for you to take advantage of. We are planning a trip to Bok Tower on Saturday, Oct. 17th in Lake Wales. This is an Oktoberfest and plant sale. There will be German food and craft beer available and many other interesting things. The bus ride is $39 p.p.

Mt. Dora will have a Craft Fair on Monday, Oct 26th. This is also $39 and you will enjoy food and wonderful crafts.

Travel is Fun Tours has many day trips, and 2 day or longer trips all of which are well planned and escorted. Check the Travel board for more or the boxes on the tables. We have cruises from Advantage Tours also.

Avoiding the dentist? It may cost you

Proper dental care is important to your overall health. Unfortunately, many of us tend to avoid visiting the dentist—often because of the cost.

A survey commissioned by Aspen Dental found that almost two out of five Americans have delayed needed dental work, or had it only partially performed, because of their financial situation. It's a figure that has jumped by almost 8 percent over the last two years, even though 80 percent say they're aware that staying away from the dentist will be more expensive in the long run.

Take one step to lose weight

Want to lose weight? Step onto a scale every day. That may seem like obvious advice, but it's supported by the results of a study reported on the Live Science website.

In the study, researchers challenged 162 people to reduce their weight by 10 percent over the course of the year. They weren't given any specific advice, but about half the participants were given scales and told to check and record their weight every morning.

Although few of the participants in either group achieved their goal of losing 10 percent of their body weight, 29 percent of those given scales succeeded in losing at least 5 percent, but only 11 percent in the scale-free group lost as much. In addition, participants given scales managed to maintain their weight loss for a second year.

The researchers have theorized that checking weight once a day may help people pay more attention to what they eat (and how much), and reinforce positive weight-loss behaviors like skipping dessert.

Without mathematics, there's nothing you can do.
Everything around you is mathematics. Everything around you is numbers.

Love, honor, and make your payment

One important factor that can unbalance a marriage or romantic relationship is debt. A survey conducted by Harris Poll for NerdWallet determined that 35 percent of adults have brought at least some credit card debt into their romantic relationships—more than student loans, car payments, medical loans, and mortgage debt.

More men than women bring it, with 42 percent of adult men coming into relationships with credit card debt, as opposed to 29 percent of women. Whoever's behind it, though, such debt can have costs beyond interest payments: 25 percent of couples with at least one partner dealing with credit card debt reported that it had a negative impact on their relationship.

Be alert to the signs of Alzheimer's disease

More than 5 million people live with Alzheimer's disease in the U.S. It's an affliction that can't be diagnosed with a blood test or a brain scan, so doctors and patients depend on behavioral clues to determine whether someone is suffering from it. An early diagnosis can help with treatment and care, so pay attention to these warning signs from the Alzheimer's Association:

- Changes in memory that disrupt daily activities
- Difficulty solving problems or making plans
- Problems performing familiar tasks at work or at home
- Confusion over places and times
- Problems processing visual images and spatial relationships
- Growing difficulties with writing and speaking
- Losing items/getting lost outside

If you or a loved one begins exhibiting a number of these symptoms, consult with your doctor. Although Alzheimer's has no cure, many treatments can delay its onset and provide a meaningful quality of life for years.

Follow correct procedures whenever you lift a load

Lifting heavy items incorrectly can injure your back and other parts of your body. Whenever you have a heavy object to move, follow these basic rules for staying safe:

- Bend at the knees.
- Keep your head up.
- Keep your back straight.
- Lift with your legs, not your arms or back.
- Keep the object close to your body.
- Don't twist your back as you walk.
- Maintain stable footing.
- Ask for help if the load is too heavy for you to move on your own.

Strengthen your peer relationships

Getting along with your manager is important to success in any workplace, but so is a good relationship with your co-workers. You need everyone's support to get ahead. Forge strong connections by looking at these factors:

- Expectations. Clarify what you expect from your colleagues in the way of information, assistance, and results. Get to know each other's goals so you can provide the right kind of support.
- Mutual trust. Can you count on each other to follow through on commitments—or at least warn that problems are approaching? This is possible only if you both take responsibility for cooperation and communication.
- Sociability. Can you do more than merely tolerate each other? Go beyond common courtesy and show a genuine interest in other people's lives outside the job. Relationships grow through getting to know each other on a personal basis instead of just talking about work.
- Communication. This is the acid test of any working relationship: Can you tell each other what's on your mind? This isn't simply a matter of airing complaints. Delivering praise or thanks to a co-worker may feel awkward, but it's the heart of a good relationship. Be honest with the people around you, and listen to their words in the same spirit.

Thought-controlled robots offer freedom and mobility

Humans can now control robots remotely with their thoughts, thanks to a team of scientists who have developed technology to help people with disabilities regain some independence in their lives.

The robots are equipped with wheels and a video camera. The scientists tested them with a group of 19 subjects, nine with disabilities and 10 without. Each subject wore a helmet studded with electrodes that analyzed with brain signals for several weeks. Then they were told to direct the movements of a robot in Switzerland via the Internet. After less than 10 days of training, all of the nine participants with disabilities were able to control the robot easily, as did those with no disability.

In addition, the robot is able to avoid obstacles on its own without direction from its human controller, allowing people to take a break when they become tired. Such robots could become part of the daily life of people with mobility issues, giving them the opportunity to interact with others outside their homes.

Solar panel promises hope for clean fuel

A new type of solar panel could allow us to split water into hydrogen and oxygen atoms and create a clean hydrogen fuel, according to the NBC News website.

The panel, developed by scientists in Switzerland, looks like the common solar panels found on rooftops. Sunlight passes through a layer of water, and the non-toxic chemical tungsten diselenide works as a catalyst to break the water into its separate hydrogen and oxygen atoms. The scientists hope to commercialize the process to create a cheap source of hydrogen fuel, but a practical version won't be available for at least 10 years.

Spiders On The Move: Land, Air, And Water

If you're afraid of spiders, this may not be good news: Scientists have discovered that some spiders can actually walk or sail across water, allowing them to travel great distances and colonize new areas of the world.

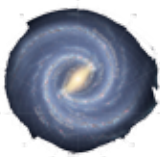

Spiders have long been known to travel by “ballooning”—climbing to the top of a plant or tree and shooting out a strand of web that catches the breeze, pulling them through the air. But what happens when they land on water? Some species of spiders have water-resistant legs that prevent them from sinking beneath the surface. With specialized “dance” routines, the spiders are able to make their way across the water. In addition, they're able to lift their legs to catch the wind, sliding on the surface as if sailing. Some spiders are also able to lift their abdomens like sails and take advantage of air currents to transport themselves.

All this helps spiders move about, allowing them to take their place as predators keeping insect populations in check. How far they can actually travel is still unclear, as is the question of whether salt water affects their mobility. Scientists are continuing to study the spiders to find out if they can literally sail across the ocean.

Black Holes: The Truth Is Out There (Just Hidden)

The universe is full of supermassive black holes, according to findings from NASA's Nuclear Spectroscopic Telescope Array (NuSTAR). But they're not always easy to locate because they're typically found at the center of galaxies, and hidden by clouds of dust and gas.

Astronomers found several of them recently them by analyzing high-energy X-rays at nine locations throughout the universe. The NuSTAR confirmed the existence of five black holes and determined that they're much more active than previously was known, consuming huge amounts of interstellar material and emitting large doses of radiation.

The NuSTAR's readings confirm theories of the presence of black holes throughout the cosmos and help to explain why many of them are obscured from view.

We can judge our progress by the courage of our questions and the depth of our answers, our willingness to embrace what is true rather than what feels good.
