Condolences to the family and friends of Sally Fagan, Lot #5, who passed away in early September.

A word to the wise from Carolyn Carr....Underwear is Important!

From the Hamilton Spectator Daily News comes this story of a Burlington couple who drove to Walmart, only to have their car break down in the parking lot. The man told his wife to carry on with the shopping while he fixed the car in the lot.

The wife returned later to see a small group of people near the car. On closer inspection, she saw a pair of male legs protruding from under the chassis. Although the man was in shorts, his lack of underpants turned private parts into glaringly public ones. Unable to stand the embarrassment, she dutifully stepped forward, quickly put her hand up his shorts and tucked everything back into place.

She then took a deep breath and stood up boldly to face the crowd. When she looked across the hood, she found herself staring at her husband, who had been standing idly by The mechanic, however, had to have three stitches in his forehead.

News From Facebook

Getting my news from Facebook, I know there was a Labor Day Picnic at the clubhouse. As always, it was well attended and the food was great.

After that, the focus of all Floridians was the approach of Hurricane Irma. First Irma devastated some of the loveliest Caribbean Islands where the cruise ships dock. Then she headed for Florida, with first land fall in the Keys. Millions of people evacuated Florida, trying to get out of harm's way. It was a very dire situation, a category 5 hurricane wider than the state of Florida with 185 mph winds. Safe in my Indiana summer home, I really feared that I would have no winter home to go to, and would never see my Honeymoon neighbors again.

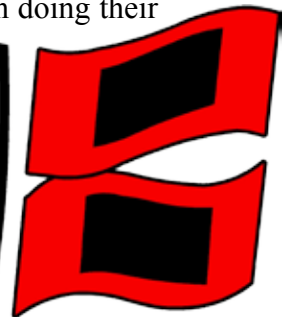

Miraculously, Irma lost her punch and downgraded before reaching the Tampa Bay area. There was still plenty of wind damage, and the power was out for a couple days, so people weren't allowed back in the park until the 12th.

Mobile home parks were the first to evacuate, so many of our residents were in shelters from Friday until Tuesday, with thousands of other people escaping the storm. It looked like there were no cots or mattresses, so folks had to get comfortable on the hard floor. Karen Briggs said that at times it was really uncomfortable and it was hard to get any sleep. They were at a middle school that was built to double as a hurricane shelter, and three meals a day were provided. Some residents headed north to stay with friends, relatives, or a hotel out of the line of fire. Some stayed with friends in the area who had sturdy homes (not condominiums!). Lives were spared, but the park did not escape damage.

I understand that when residents were allowed to go home, they all pitched in to start cleaning up the mess. Ron and Marta started on First St throwing debris in the back of Ron's truck, and before long there was a regular parade of people helping out. And now ladies are going up and down the streets picking up items and trying to match them with the proper home. Doug Jr. is lending a hand, as is Rich Gropp. Everyone who is able has been doing their part. Some have been posting pictures of homes around the park, which is very helpful to us snowbirds. Honeymoon is a great place to live!

I was glued to my TV for 2 weeks, first watching the tragedy Hurricane Harvey caused in Houston, followed by Irma's slow march toward Florida. I saw foolish reporters from CNN and The Weather Channel barely being able to stand in the strong winds, being pelted by rain. I saw people walking in Tampa Bay when the water was sucked out by the storm. I kept hearing "catastrophic" storm, and Governor Scott said "Get out now!" In the end, it wasn't as bad as everyone feared, but it was bad enough!

My friend Linda shares these thoughts about one of my favorite beverages – WINE!
If I had a bottle of wine for every time I went to the gym, I would start going to the gym.
Some people need a special occasion to enjoy a little wine. I just need a glass.
It was so windy when I was walking to the gym, I got blown into the wine store.
Drinking wine at home is much better because you can drink in your pajamas and there is no last call.
Exercise makes you look better naked. So does wine. Your choice.
Like fine wine we get better with age...or rather we feel better about our age with wine.
I might have a slight drinking problem. My husband asked me to toast some bread for him.
I raised my glass and said "Here's to bread".

Some various words of wisdom from another friend...

Remember, once you get over the hill, you'll begin to pick up speed.
If it weren't for stress, I'd have no energy at all.
Everyone has a photographic memory. Some, like me, just don't have any film.
Dogs have owners, cats have staff.
A balanced diet is a cookie in each hand.
Opportunities always look bigger going than coming.
Learn from the mistakes of others. Trust me...you can't live long enough to make them all yourself. I've tried.

Another word from Susie....

I will still be in Indiana when it is time to put together the November newsletter. Please email thoughts, stories, pictures to Honeymoongazette@gmail.com. I would love to hear any hurricane stories, or vacation stories or family stories.

Three activities to ward off Alzheimer's

Alzheimer's disease may not have a cure, but experts believe some practices can help delay memory loss. Here's what you can do:

- Cognitive training. Crossword puzzles and other games can help, but try some different techniques. Do simple arithmetic in your head instead of relying on a calculator. Develop a new method for remembering what's on your shopping list. Train your brain to remember things in new ways and you'll keep it sharper.
- Control your blood pressure. Reducing high blood pressure with medication and weight loss not only cuts your risk of heart disease, but it can also ease stress on the delicate blood vessels in your brain— stress that can exacerbate memory loss and dementia.
- Exercise. Moderate aerobic exercise has many health benefits, including heading off symptoms associated with Alzheimer's. Try exercising for 30 minutes five days a week, or 50 minutes three times a week. You'll feel better and extend your cognitive health.

Scientists search for life on the toughest planets

We think of life as viable only on planets orbiting stars like our sun, but scientists now speculate that it could evolve on worlds circling very different types of stars.

Stars called M dwarfs are the most common stars in our galaxy. Their harsh flares and gravitational grip on their innermost planets could interfere with the formation of liquid water, which is necessary for life. However, astronomers have spotted approximately 200 planets circling M dwarfs, and dozens are in the so-called habitable zone where liquid water could exist and temperatures aren't too extreme for the development of life.

Scientists are studying these strange new worlds in hopes of detecting conditions that might lead to life—although it will probably be very different from any life found on Earth.

Lost and found: Seeking owner of ancient sword

Scientists are trying to determine the identity of the owner of a 14th-century sword found in a bog in Poland. The four-foot-long sword, which according to the Fox News website is remarkably well preserved, was discovered by a worker using an excavator to drain a peat bog. The worker donated his find to a local museum.

Museum officials speculate that the sword was lost by a medieval knight, or that perhaps the knight perished in the bog. Researchers are examining an engraving on the sword's hilt that may identify the knight or his family. Meanwhile, archeologists are searching the bog for other artifacts.

Find your creative style

Whatever you want to achieve on the job or in your life, you need creativity to do it. That doesn't mean you have to have the scientific genius of Einstein or the artistic vision of Georgia O'Keeffe. You can unleash your creative mind by finding your own creative style. Here's how entrepreneurial expert Esther de Charon de Saint Germain describes styles on The Huffington Post website:

- Watchmakers. Some people are highly structured and detail oriented. They like to polish their ideas until they're as close to perfect as possible.
- Wave makers. These folks are more intuitive. They don't dive into details, but think in big-picture concepts. They're apt to lose interest, though, once the hard work of hammering down their ideas starts.
- Acrobats. These thinkers can go both ways. They think outside of the box, but they're also able to hone their ideas into something practical. Try to be this kind of creator.

Improve your brain with these tips

Do you want to think more clearly, experience more insight, and have more creative breakthroughs? Take a look at a few tasks (from the Inc. website) that you can put into practice today for a more productive and imaginative brain:

- Seek out new environments. Don't stay in your rut. Go to a concert by a band you've never heard of. Visit a museum you've never been to. Travel somewhere completely new. You'll shake up your mind and nudge it in new directions.
- Let your mind wander. Don't focus all the time. Give your mind permission to soar from time to time, just exploring anything that pops in. A relaxed mind is more open to new ideas and different ways of thinking.
- Have more fun. All work and no play makes ... well, you know the rest. Take time for fun. Play a new game, take up a fresh hobby, meet new people who share your interests and can introduce you to new ones. Playfulness can lead to great ideas.
- Stop multi-tasking. When you're working on a problem or an idea, put away all distractions and focus. If you're constantly shifting from one task to another, your brain will get tired, and you won't have the perspective you need to zero in on what you're looking for.

Did you know that October is also...

Adopt a Dog Month. Each year an estimated 3 million to 4 million animals waiting in shelters never find someone to give them a safe, loving home and are euthanized. If you're thinking about getting a dog, be a hero and consider adopting from your local shelter.

Down Syndrome Awareness Month. Approximately one in every 700 babies in the United States is born with Down syndrome, making it the most common chromosomal condition. During October you can celebrate people with Down syndrome and make others aware of their abilities and accomplishments.

National Cyber Security Awareness Month. The internet touches almost all aspects of our daily life. National Cyber Security Awareness Month is designed to engage and educate public and private sector partners through events and initiatives to raise awareness about the importance of cyber security, provide them with tools and resources needed to stay safe online, and increase the resiliency of the nation in the event of a cyber incident.

National Protect Your Hearing Month. Hearing loss is a growing health issue among young adults and older Americans alike. Forty-eight million people nationwide suffer from hearing loss. National Protect Your Hearing Month is an important reminder to take steps to preserve your hearing health.

Mental Illness Awareness Week, Oct. 1-7. During Mental Illness Awareness Week, join the National Alliance on Mental Illness in shining a light on mental illness and replacing stigma with hope.

World Space Week, Oct. 4-10. More than 2,700 events in 86 countries celebrated the benefits of space and excitement about space exploration in 2016. This year's theme, "Exploring New Worlds In Space," aims to inspire even more events around the world.

National Business Women's Week, Oct. 15-21. The purpose of this observance is "to recognize women who have been the cornerstone of working in business in the United States in the past and to examine how far women in business have come."

International Music Day, Oct. 1. Initiated in 1975 to encourage the promotion of musical art among all sections of society.

World Teacher's Day, Oct. 5. Celebrate the hardworking teachers who educate our children.

Columbus Day, Oct 9. In 1492, Columbus sailed the ocean blue . . .

Dinosaurs may have been big softies

The popular image of dinosaurs is one of tough, ferocious creatures, but they may have been more sensitive than previously thought—at least their faces.

According to the Science News website, paleontologists at the University of Southampton used advanced X-ray and 3-D imaging to examine the skull of a large carnivorous land-based dinosaur found on the Isle of Wight and found that its snout may have actually been very tender—more like that of an aquatic creature. The dinosaur, a Neovenator, may have possessed pressure receptors in the skin of its snout, similar to those enabling crocodiles to forage in murky water.

Because scientists don't believe the Neovenator was a water feeder, they speculate the receptors may have been useful for picking meat from bones while eating and also stroking other dinosaur faces during mating.

What caused a massive extinction of sea life?

Most people know about the mass extinction of the dinosaurs millions of years ago, but paleontologists are hot the trail of another catastrophic event: the dying off by large marine animals 2-3 million years ago.

The extinction claimed the lives of up to one-third of marine megafauna, including water-based mammals, which lost 55 percent of their species. Forty-three percent of sea turtle species also died off, along with 33 percent of sea birds and 9 percent of sharks.

A team at the University of Zurich studying the event theorizes that a sudden loss of the productive coastal habitats combined with altered sea currents caused or contributed to the extinctions. The evidence suggests that large marine animals were more vulnerable to environmental changes than was previously believed.

Science is the acceptance of what works and the rejection of what does not. That needs more courage than we might think.

The whole job took just a week even with all the rain delays. I would and WILL highly recommend your company to my friends and neighbors. Of course I won't need to say a word – the house is doing all the talking! Thank you so much for my beautiful new house."

Carol Zapiecki, Clearwater, FL

"Just a short note to express my appreciation for the work done on my mobile home. The crews that worked here...were gentlemen at all times, efficient, knowledgeable and prompt.
