"...I am so happy with my new windows...I'd like to commend your work crew. Earbie and Larry were fantastic! I couldn't believe the clean-up EVERYDAY! The whole job took just a week even with all the rain delays. I would and WILL highly recommend your company to my friends and neighbors. Of course I won't need to say a word – the house is doing all the talking! Thank you so much for my beautiful new house."

Carol Zapiecki, Clearwater, FL

"Just a short note to express my appreciation for the work done on my mobile home. The crews that worked here...were gentlemen at all times, efficient, knowledgeable and prompt. You can be sure if I run into anybody who needs your type of work, I will surely recommend your company. It has been a very satisfying experience!"

Trends in U.S. dining: Quick decisions and lots of delivery

Diners in the United States are pretty spur-of-the-moment when it comes to deciding where to go out to eat, according to a survey cited on the Fast Casual website. Eighty-five percent make their dinner decision on the day of the meal.

Delivery is a popular option among all age groups, from Baby Boomers to Generation Z (born 1995–2010 or so). Fifty-one percent in the survey said they'd gotten food delivered in the past three months, with millennials doing the most ordering—77 percent of the age group.

What are people ordering?

- Burgers (28 percent)
- Wings (27 percent)
- Mexican (21 percent)
- Barbecue (14 percent)
- Desserts (11 percent)

Anyone who considers arithmetical methods of producing random digits is, of course, in the state of sin. For, as has been pointed out several times, there is no such thing as a random number—there are only methods to produce random numbers, and a strict arithmetic procedure of course is not such a method.

—John von Neumann

Thinking of a fast? Try these approaches

Many people practice intermittent fasting—going without food for a limited period of time. Benefits include fat loss, greater longevity, and better overall health. The Medical News Today website offers these strategies for fasting:

- Twelve hours. Some researchers say that fasting for 10–16 hours can cause your body to start burning fat and turning it into energy. The easiest way to do a 12-hour fast is to start at night. Fasting from 7 p.m. to 7 a.m., for example, means you won't spend all day reminding yourself that you're not eating, so you avoid the temptation to give in when hunger pangs start to rise.

- Two-day fast. You don't have to go completely without food, but under this plan, men should eat only 600 calories a day and women should consume 500. Separate the days—don't go two days in a row. Instead, plan at least one non-fasting day between your efforts. Studies suggest that this can help reduce weight and also improve insulin levels.

- Every other day. Again, limit yourself to 500–600 calories per day on your fast, but eat as much as you want on non-fast days. One study found that this is effective for weight loss and heart health. It's a little extreme, though, and may not be suitable or sustainable for long periods of time.

- Twenty-four hours. Once a week, abstain from eating for a full 24 hours—maybe from one breakfast to the next. You can drink coffee, tea, or other calorie-free beverages during your fast. Return to your normal routine afterward. Be aware, though, that this fast can cause fatigue, headaches, and/or irritability.

- Skip a meal. This type of fast is good for beginners. Instead of fasting for long periods of time, simply skip breakfast, lunch, or dinner. Just remember to eat nutritious and healthful foods during your other meals.

It's important to stay hydrated during your fast, with lots of calorie-free drinks. Try not to obsess about food—plan distractions, like going to the movies or catching up on chores. Finally, avoid strenuous activity when you fast. Rest and relaxation will help you maintain your motivation.

Nanotubes in your clothes may power your phone

Someday you may not have to remember to plug your smartphone in to recharge it. Scientists are working on clothes that will charge your phone for you, according to the Science Daily website. The fabric contains carbon nanotubes, replacing polyester and other artificial fibers. At present the nanotubes are too expensive to mass produce, but researchers are looking at military applications that may allow soldiers' equipment to recharge—lights, communication gear, and night-vision capabilities.

Did you know that October is also...

National Apple Month. Because apples are high in fiber and contain no sodium, cholesterol, or fat, they make a great snack. With more than 2,500 varieties grown in North America, it won't be difficult to find one you can enjoy chopped into your morning oatmeal, baked into a pie, or cored and sliced any time of the day when you want a delicious treat.

International Augmentative and Alternative Communication (AAC) Awareness Month. AAC is a set of strategies, tools, and devices used by people to overcome communication challenges. People who rely on AAC might use sign language, text, pictures, symbols, speech-generating devices or a combination of these for their basic communication. This month let's increase our awareness of the possibilities that could develop when everyone has the ability communicate effectively.

National Work and Family Month. In 2003 the U.S. government designated October as a time to promote sensible, flexible, and healthy work environments, as well as the benefits of work/life balance. Don't wait for your employer to create an initiative or perk to combat the daily grind. Take a day or more of PTO to decompress from your busy life and reconnect with your family.

Positive Attitude Month. Researchers believe people who embrace a positive outlook have less stress, an increased sense of well-being, better coping skills, and longer life spans. Purge the negativity from your life: Meditate, pray, practice positive affirmations, and surround yourself with only happy people. Do whatever you must, but always look on the bright side.

Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 7-13. This year's motto is "Look. Listen. Learn. Be aware. Fire can happen anywhere." Look for and eliminate potential fire hazards in your home. Listen for the sound of smoke alarms. Learn two ways of exiting every room in the event of an emergency. Visit the National Fire Protection Association website at <https://www.nfpa.org/Public-Education/Campaigns/Fire-Prevention-Week> to access more information.

Bone and Joint Action Week, Oct. 12-20. It's estimated that more than half of the U.S. population over 18 is dealing with some sort of musculoskeletal issue. This can include arthritis, osteoporosis, back pain, injuries or other conditions causing pain, disability, and a diminished quality of life. There is hope. Visit the website for the U.S. Bone and Joint Initiative at <https://www.usbj.org/> to find out about research, prevention, and initiatives targeting bone and joint issues

National Taco Day, Oct. 4. Have one for breakfast, lunch, dinner, or any time of the day. We celebrate the taco on this day just to give you one more reason to enjoy them.

Take up a hobby

Want to be more creative? Find a hobby. According to the Nature website, hobbies boost inspiration in scientific researchers, and they can spur your imagination, too. Here's how to do it:

- Set aside some time. No matter how busy you are, commit to spending a certain amount of time every day or week on your hobby. It doesn't have to be excessive, but schedule enough time so you can concentrate fully on what you're doing without interruption.

- Consider exercise. Getting your blood pumping can be good for your mind as well as your body. Committing to an exercise routine, even a modest one, forces you to take time out of your day. Focus on things other than work as you work out. You may find the solution to a sticky problem after you're done.

- Look outside your field. Pick a hobby that's not related to your work. Painting, for example, can help you see the world in different ways. Select something that will challenge your thinking, and you may find connections to the issues you're working on.

Making a difference

Every Sunday while jogging through the park, Roderick noticed an elderly gentleman sitting at the pond with a small metal cage next to him.

One Sunday, Roderick decided to satisfy his curiosity and approach the man to find out what he was up to. As Roderick moved closer he realized what he thought was a cage was actually a trap. Inside were three small turtles, unharmed. A fourth turtle sat on the old man's lap and he gently scrubbed its shell with a brush.

"What are you doing?" Roderick asked.

"I'm cleaning the algae off the shells of these turtles," the old man replied.

"Why?" Roderick asked.

"The scum damages their shells, making it hard for them to retain heat, survive, and thrive," the old man said.

"Is that what I see you out here doing every Sunday?" asked Roderick.

"Yep," the old man replied. "Rain or shine, I come here every week to take care of these turtles."

"Interesting," Roderick said. "Why do you do it?"

"It's my way of making a difference," the old man replied.

Honoring those who have died

The Mexican celebration of Día de Muertos (Day of the Dead) is often mistaken for a Spanish version of Halloween. It is actually a way for families to honor loved ones who are no longer living.

Scholars believe the tradition is rooted in ancient Aztec culture. Thousands of years before Columbus ever set foot in the New World, Aztec people honored the lives of their deceased ancestors in celebrations that spanned what is now the month of August. Indigenous populations throughout central and southern Mexico maintained these practices for centuries.

With the arrival of Spanish settlers in Mexico in the 16th century and the influence of Christianity that followed, the practice transformed into a three-day celebration paralleling the Allhallowtide of All Saint's Eve, All Saint's Day, and All Soul's Day taking place Oct. 31 through Nov. 2.

In the 21st century, the observance of Día de Muertos begins at midnight on Oct. 31, when it is believed that the souls of the dead are allowed to return to be with their loved ones. Día de los Angelitos (Day of the Little Angels) or Día de los Inocentes (Day of the Innocents) falls on Nov. 1, when the souls of deceased children and infants are believed to return. Día de los Muertos follows on Nov. 2, when the spirits of the ancestors are honored.

During this time families will create altars in their homes or at the cemetery, where they tidy and decorate the graves of their loved ones. Ofrendas (offerings) of food, sweets, toys, trinkets, marigolds, and beverages are left on these altars. Family and friends share stories of their loved ones, sing songs, offer prayers, and feast as a tribute to the departed.

To dance, especially at the gravesite, is a way to awaken the spirits and invite them to join the family once more. The parades and large festive gatherings in cemeteries are just another way to show respect and celebrate the lives of those who have passed on.

Día de Muertos is observed throughout Mexico, most of North and South America, and around the world. Will you honor your late ancestors this year?

People carry their loved ones with them. They are forever present.
